For the second consecutive year, Clemson's football programs were judged among the top five in America. The College Sports Information Directors of America appointed a committee of publications experts who rated the Clemson programs among the top four in the country in 1975, and the 1976 programs among the top five.

If today's Tiger-Wolfpack battle is anything like some of those previous 45 meetings between the two charter members of the ACC, then buckle up. The rivalry is best remembered for the days when Frank Howard stalked the Clemson sideline wondering what State's Earle Edwards was going to conjure up on the other side of the field. Certainly one of the most exciting was Clemson's 14-6 win in 1967 (See Buddy Gore's recollection of that game on Page 7) when the Tigers came out in Orange shoes. State's defensive unit had become famous that season wearing White shoes.

Then one year later in Raleigh, a Tiger comeback gave Clemson a 24-19 win and Howard a budding new tailback named Ray Auger.

It's an unpredictable series. Take the 1971 game. Although State had managed but two wins all year, the Wolfpack ended the season in Death Valley with an exciting 31-23 win. And State found a budding sophomore back named Willie Burden, the third-best rusher in Wolfpack history.

Today's encounter pits the same rivals, only the names have been changed.

State's Johnny Evans is the league's leading player in total offense. His passing arm is a deadly weapon. Evans has hit 64 of 141 passes for 963 yards.

Although Clemson's Steve Fuller, like Evans a candidate for All-ACC honors, doesn't have that many yards via the pass, he ranks behind the State signal-caller in total offense with 929 yards.

But don't expect State to rely on the Evans arm alone. The Pack brings a pair of running backs to Tigertown that any team in the country would like to have in Ted Brown and Billy Ray Vickers.

Already State's all-time career rushing leader in only his junior year, Brown has 625 yards in 110 carries this season, and 2,626 total. He played in only seven varsity games his freshman year, but Clemson folks should remember him. In 24 carries, Brown set a State single-game rushing mark with 227 yards and four touchdowns.

Only a sophomore, Vickers has netted 487 yards on 89 rushes.

Clemson's top rushers are Lester Brown and Warren Ratchford with 339 and 318 yards, respectively.

Fleet Jerry Butler is Fuller's top aerial partner with 23 receptions for 450 yards, and the Charlotte, N. C. duo of Dwight Clark and Rick Weddington have grabbed nine each for 162 and 119 yards, respectively.

State brings the league's top total offensive team into today's game, and top scoring team.

Clemson hopes to counter with a defensive unit that has been stingy this fall, and one ranked second in the conference in total defense.

Charley Pell's defensive heroes have been many, although linebackers Randy Scott, Bubba Brown, and Ronnie Smith, and end Mark Heniford are the team's top tacklers.

Steve Ryan, a starting free safety who came to Clemson without a scholarship after transferring from North Carolina A&T, heads the team in interceptions with four.

DT Jim Stuckey had an exceptional game against Duke, including a pass interception that set up Clemson's first TD, and a bone-crushing tackle that stripped Blue Devil quarterback Mike Dunn of the football to give the Tigers possession at their own 21 to halt a Duke scoring drive.

But don't assume anything about this rivalry other than the fact that both teams are still in the running for the ACC title along with three other teams.

North Carolina, with a 2-0 record, leads the race with the Wolfpack second at 3-1. The Tigers and Maryland are both 2-1, and Duke is 1-1.

Tigers, Wolfpack In ACC Showdown

1. Jerry Butler is one of the country's top scoring threats every time he touches the football. 2. Although Ken Callicutt has rushed for only 66 yards this season after missing the '76 campaign and the '77 spring drills, he is Clemson's fourth-leading all-time rusher with 1,952 yards and a very big part of this '77 Tiger team. 3. Steve Ryan is one of the ACC's leading pass interceptors with four. 4. Soph Jim Stuckey had a big day for the Tig defense at Duke last Saturday.

THE CLEMSON UNIVERSITY TIGER BAND presents JAZZ/ROCK

By Kelly Durham
Department of Public Relations

Clemson University's Tiger Band features several selections of jazz/rock music by Chuck Mangione to highlight today's halftime entertainment.

During the pre-game period the band will set the stage for Tiger football with "Sock It To 'Em" and Clemson's traditional fight song, "Tiger Rag." The pre-game program continues with the 4:30 Thursday Choral Ensemble, singing the National Anthem and the Clemson Alma Mater, directed by Dr. William Campbell and accompanied by the Tiger Band under the direction of marching band director Dr. Bruce Cook.

The percussion unit's rhythmic beat will move the band onto the field for the halftime show. Under the field direction of drum major Richard Moose of Newberry, the Tiger Band will present five Chuck Mangione jazz/rock compositions. An interchange of elements between jazz and rock is evident in "Love the Feelin'," "Bellavia," "Listen to the Wind," and Mangione's Spanish piece, "El Gato Triste."

In addition to the Tiger Band's entertainment, the N. C. State Band will also perform during today's halftime.

The Tiger Band is under the direction of Dr. Bruce Cook, marching band director since 1966. The Tiger Band commander is Tom Waldrop of Hanahan.

Buddy Gore Recalls

Clemson has played N. C. State more times (45) than any other Atlantic Coast Conference rival. The Tigers have prevailed in 28 of the previous meetings, compared to the Wolfpack's 16. The only tie of the series that dates back to 1899 was a 0-0 deadlock in 1906. Of all the exciting games in this rivalry, Clemson's all-time rushing leader and the ACC's MVP in 1967, Buddy Gore, remembers the Tigers' 14-6 win over State in '67.

As usual, the weather was hot in November, and so was Death Valley as we played once-beaten N. C. State in our last home game and for the ACC title. A highly-touted Wolfpack defensive unit had become famous in '67 for wearing white shoes, as well as for stopping the opponents.

I remember receiving several letters from State's All-American defensive tackle Dennis Byrd, and all the letters said the same thing—"Gore, you won't score. Gore, you really stink!" All of this worried me during the week, but our All-American offensive guard Harry Olszewski told me not to worry. "Buddy, you just follow me, okay?"

The air was getting heavy in the old Fike Field House gym as we dressed for the game. And we had a surprise for the Wolfpack in their white shoes—we had all painted our shoes "Tiger Orange." As we ran down the carpet and onto the playing field, the N. C. State team stopped their warm ups to watch the 49 pairs of orange shoes rolling into the stadium. Man, talk about butterflies, I had them!

Finally, the game started, and I ran the ball on our first play. Although Dennis Byrd didn't tackle me, as I walked back to the huddle he yelled, "Hey, Gore, you stink," and this continued through the first half as State built up a 6-0 lead on a pair of field goals.

Early in the third period we decided to pass. "Needle," Jimmy Addison, called the play, and the pattern was for me to hit the flat and down the sideline. I was well known for my pass receiving ability. In fact, I believe that I had caught but two passes in my entire career. Anyhow, I was more or less used for drawing the corner man out of the picture. This time I was no decoy, and Lord knows I was down field and open. I turned to look over my right shoulder at "Needle" who was looking, you guessed it, right at me. Then I saw it. The football was coming to me, and, surprisingly, I caught the thing—a 28-yard pass that was the game's first touchdown. The excitement and glory of that one catch has meant a great deal to me.

Even more important than that, as I was walking back to the huddle for the extra point, guess who I passed? That's right, Big Dennis Byrd. I looked at him and said, "Dennis, how do I smell from here?"

The rest is history. We won the game 14-6 and went on down to Columbia the following week to destroy South Carolina and become the 1967 Atlantic Coast Conference Champions. N. C. State went on to defeat Georgia in the Liberty Bowl.

Library plaza

New Biological Sciences Center.

The story of Clemson University — from its beginning as an idea in the mind of Thomas Green Clemson to its emergence as an important center of teaching, research and public service — is a story of unique purpose.

When the aging Mr. Clemson envisioned this institution that has flourished so well on his plantation lands, he was mindful of a special mission it would have, one he stated clearly.

In the bitter economic conditions of his time, Mr. Clemson saw the college he dreamed of as the great hope for South Carolina farmers and the state's economic recovery. For only through the application of scientific education and technology to problem solving, he believed, could the people hope to attain a better quality of life.

In his wisdom and with an eye to the state's future needs, Mr. Clemson entrusted the Board of Trustees with the power to change the college's curricula to meet the changing needs of future generations.

Today, more than 84 years since that first class met in July 1893, the basic mission which Thomas Clemson stated — an institution to serve the people's needs — remains unchanged. But as these needs have changed and new technology comes of age, the University's programs have reflected these changing needs, as Thomas Clemson knew they must do.

Serving as Clemson's president for the past 19 years, Dr. Robert C. Edwards has set the pace for strong leadership and administrative direction during the university's greatest period of growth both in academic, physical expansion and in service to the State and its citizens.

"Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness"

Clemson students number about 10,500 on campus.

More than 11,000 students pursue a wealth of academic programs in the university's nine colleges and graduate school. Colleges are agricultural sciences, architecture, education, engineering, forest and recreation resources, industrial management and textile science, liberal arts, nursing and sciences.

In terms of academic excellence, the quality of students entering Clemson is high and they are well prepared. In the 1976 freshman class 61 per cent graduated in the top 20 per cent of their high school class.

As a land-grant university, Clemson has statewide responsibilities in teaching, research and public service programs which are not available from any other source in the state.

And one of Clemson's major distinctions is the fact that the General Assembly has seen fit to assign the responsibility to Clemson of several state regulatory and consumer protection programs that are elsewhere handled by governmental agencies.

Like the changing needs of the state and nation, Clemson's physical facilities have grown to serve these requirements. On the campus proper of 600 acres rise academic buildings, student housing, service facilities and equipment valued at $125 million.

Centerpieces of the campus — and symbols of Clemson's heritage — are Tillman Hall with its clock tower and Fort Hill, the stately antebellum mansion of John C. Calhoun and later his son-in-law, Thomas Clemson.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Bill McLellan

Only the third man to own the title of Athletic Director at Clemson over the past 46 years, Bill McLellan was elevated to his present position February 4, 1971, following what had been more than a decade of service to the University's athletic organization.

A native of Hamer, S. C., the 45-year old McLellan graduated from Dillon High School and entered Clemson where he earned a pair of football letters, and was a member of the Tigers' 1952 Gator Bowl team.

He joined the athletic staff May 1, 1958 from Clemson's Department of Agricultural Economics and Seed Certification where he had spent one year as assistant agronomist and two years as assistant economist.

Although carrying the title of Assistant Business Manager, McLellan has been credited with handling the majority of the department's athletic business and operation long before his appointment into his present role.

In 1966, McLellan was named Assistant Athletic Director, and two years later was appointed Associate Athletic Director.

During his reign as Athletic Director, Clemson's athletic program has experienced a major upheaval.

The Tigers can boast of the finest athletic facilities in not only the Atlantic Coast Conference, but in the South as well.

The modern and spacious Jervy Athletic Center is one of the most complete facilities in America, and this complex serves as the home for Clemson's 18 sports — 12 men's and six women's.

The basketball Tigers play before packed crowds in attractive Littlejohn Coliseum, and many of the Clemson games are telecast on either regional or national networks.

And the football Tigers, after averaging better than 44,000 at home last fall, will be playing in a remodeled Memorial Stadium in '78 that will have some 53,000 permanent seats.

But conference titles and All-American honors have come to other sports as well, and McLellan's direction has given Clemson a program that was ranked 20th in the nation in overall excellence in 1975-76. Moreover, the basketball, fencing, and tennis teams enjoyed top 20 ranking in 1976-77, and the baseball and soccer teams both boasted of the nation's top rank at some point during their respective campaigns.

McLellan earned a B.S. degree from Clemson in agronomy in '54, and a master's in agricultural economics in '56. He is married to the former Ann Rogers of Fork, S. C. They have four children — Suzy, a senior at Winthrop; Bill, a sophomore at Spartanburg Methodist College; Cliff, a freshman at Tennessee Tech; and Arch Anna, a sophomore at Pendleton High School.

“Coach”

Charles Byron (Charley) Pell was named Clemson's 20th head football coach December 1, 1976.

Born in Albertville, Ala., the 36-year old Pell is in his second year on the Tiger staff, having served as assistant head coach and defensive coordinator during the 1976 campaign.

Pell played but one year of high school football, but went on the University of Alabama where he was a three-year letterman for the Crimson Tide.

At a light 180 pounds, Pell was a two-way starter as an offensive guard and defensive tackle, and played in the Orange, Sugar, and Bluebonnet Bowls during his career.

In his junior season, '61, Alabama won the National Championship.

Pell entered the coaching profession as a graduate assistant to his former tutor, Paul "Bear" Bryant in '64.

Charlie Bradshaw hired the young Pell as defensive line coach at the University of Kentucky where the latter spent the next four years, from '65 through '68.

Pell's first taste of head coaching came in December of '68 when he was selected to rebuild the Jacksonville, Ala., State University grid program.

During the next five seasons, '69 through '73, Pell built aggressive defensive teams that garnered a five-year mark of 33-13-1, including a 30-7-1 ledger his last four campaigns.

His 1970 JSU team was 10-0 which included a 21-7 win over Florida A&M in the Orange Blossom Classic, and was ranked second in the nation. His '72 team finished 10th nationally, and his '73 squad ranked fourth.

In '70, he was conference, district, area, and state of Alabama Coach of the Year, and runner-up for national coaching honors. He earned the state accolade again in '73.

He joined VPI's staff as assistant head coach and defensive coordinator in 1974, and remained there until coming to Clemson.

Pell took a defensive unit that ranked 128th nationally prior to his arrival and molded it into one that finished the '75 season as 29th toughest against scoring.

Pell earned his B.S. degree in business administration from Alabama in '64. He is married to the former Ward Noel of Lexington, Ky., and they have a son — Carrick (7).

CLEAR UP YOUR FUTURE IN THE 2-YEAR AFROTC PROGRAM.

What's up after college? That question is enough to get a lot of young people down.

Air Force ROTC college graduates have that worry, too. But their immediate future (and longer if they choose) is much more secure. As a commissioned officer, there's a good job...Travel. Graduate level education. Promotions. Financial security. And really, lots more.

If you have two academic years remaining, there's a great 2-year AFROTC program still available to you. Look into the details. We think you'll be pleasantly surprised. And pleasantly rewarded.

QUALITY IN EVERY DETAIL

THE JOE KINES FAMILY

Joe Kines, his daughter Susan, and wife Ruby take time to enjoy the picturesque Clemson campus.

Joe was the first coach hired by Charley Pell after the latter was appointed head coach of the Tigers last December, as the two had coached together for two and a half years at Jacksonville State University.

Susan quickly became involved in the University community as she served as a ball girl for the Clemson women's tennis team last spring.

A fifth-grader at Morrison Elementary School, Susan was a midget cheerleader back in Alabama, and spends most of her spare time in Clemson with activities in her church and by sharpening her skills as a tap dancer.

The former Ruby Bell became Mrs. Joe Kines in 1966. A product of Lafayette, Ga., Joe calls his wife "the professional shopper of the entire staff. She can spot a sale sign along the highway with the car travelling 65 miles per hour."

She enjoys all forms of needlework, and working with the young people at Clemson's First Baptist Church.

THE TOM MOORE FAMILY

Tom and Joyce Moore relax with their children, Rhett and Ashley.

When Tom joined the Clemson staff in 1971, it was a homecoming for his wife, the former Joyce Stewart who grew up in this quaint college community.

They first dated while Joyce was a student at Coker College and Tom was at The Citadel.

Joyce is an educator. She has been involved as a teacher or administrator for a dozen years.

While teaching at Moultrie (now Wando) High School in Mt. Pleasant, Joyce coached the girls' basketball team to a sparkling 26-2 record.

She served as associate athletic director for women at Denver's YMCA while Tom was coaching at Aurora, Colo., High School.

Joyce taught two years at Pendleton High School, and is now in her third year at Liberty High School where she is the cheerleader sponsor and organizer of the school's pom-pom group.

Rhett is in the first grade at Morrison Annex. He learned to water ski this past summer.

Ashley, "Daddy's girl," according to Tom, attends the Sunshine Play School.

Tom, incidentally, played high school football with Joe Namath in Beaver Falls, Pa., and was a coach at Wichita State University when tragedy struck in the form of a plane crash as the team was on its way to play Utah State. Tom was aboard the second of a two-plane charter that day.

Professor Outdistances Stereotypes

By Margaret Pridgen
Department of Public Relations

Tamsey Andrews shatters stereotypes.

The ideas that a woman can't be an athlete and that athletes are dumb are foreign to her.

While studying for advanced degrees at Brandeis University, she played basketball for the women's varsity for two years and threw the javelin for the Liberty Athletic Club for two years.

Andrews' days of serious competition in those sports are behind her, but she hopes an injured knee will heal enough for her to resume cross-country running. She wants to work her way up to the marathon.

Now beginning a year as visiting instructor in history at Clemson University, she lacks only a dissertation to earn her Ph.D. from Brandeis. She says most of the 14 languages she's learned are useful only in her Mediterranean studies research, and she's a little rusty on some of them. The languages include Assyrian, Egyptian, Sumerian and Ugaritic.

After completing course work for her doctorate, Andrews worked as consulting Assyriologist for the Harvard Semitic Museum and made desk signs and cleaned type at a bronze foundry. For the year before she came to Clemson, she held an office job involving fund-raising for the Brandeis library and arranging one-day educational seminars.

A dislocated shoulder put an end to her javelin throwing, but she found she was better at cross-country running when she tried that.

In one season she brought her times down to 33 minutes for five miles and 19 minutes for three miles.

Andrews was the top cross-country runner in the master's (over 30) age group for Liberty, one of the leading women's AAU track teams in the country. After just one season she was hit first by a car and then by flu. Then she developed runner's knee, a common ailment among distance runners.

Now 31, she's coming back slowly, trying to see how the knee holds up.

Running cross-country is "very satisfying, a great deal of fun," she says. "It combines everything I enjoy, getting outdoors, moving around under my own steam. The last half mile of any race isn't too much fun, but afterwards it's fun."

Although Andrews expects teaching to take up most of her time, she has found some materials in the Clemson library that will be helpful in research for her dissertation.

The dissertation brings together her interest in ancient cultures and her enthusiasm toward athletics. The subject is possible Near Eastern connections with the origins of the Olympic Games.

She believes an indirect connection exists between the practice of sports such as running, wrestling and boxing in Egypt and the Tigris-Euphrates Valley and the later organized athletics of the Nemean, Isthmian, Olympic and Pythian Games.

The Campus Living Room

*By Margaret Pridgen
Department of Public Relations*

"The student union is called the living room of the campus," says Art Hartzog. "That's an old definition, but it's still a pretty good one."

Hartzog is program director for Clemson University's Edgar A. Brown University Union. His job is to help students and other members of the university community plan and carry out the activities and entertainments they want to take place in their "living room."

And there is a mind-boggling array of activities to choose from, more than 550 separate events last year.

Because the union is so active, students, faculty and staff on almost any day of the year can see a free or low-cost movie . . . bowl or play foosball and pool . . . get help planning a vacation . . . enjoy live entertainment or simply the company of friends in a relaxed club-type atmosphere.

At other times, on special occasions, they can attend a rock or bluegrass music concert . . . raft down the Chattooga River . . . learn how to cane chair bottoms or decorate cakes . . . buy a house plant . . . watch a Clemson basketball game on an eight-foot TV screen . . . or help build a 300-foot submarine sandwich.

In fact, the union sponsors so many activities it has a special telephone "Program Line" that students can call 24 hours a day to get recorded information on upcoming activities. The number is 656-2300.

Because students sit along with faculty and staff on the union governing board, the program board and each of the 10 program committees, the union helps round out the young person's education and leadership training in ways the classroom never could.

Hartzog says about 150 students each year participate in planning and administering union activities, and 80,000 people attended union events last year.

So after things settle down on the "playground" of the campus today, go on up and see what's happening in the "living room." You'll be glad you stopped by.

ARA-Slater's philosophy is a unique, systematic approach designed to achieve our most important goal: STUDENT SATISFACTION. This concept is a result of our experience with millions of students. We have the flexibility to understand your needs and the capability to satisfy them.

At Clemson, ARA demonstrates practical, new methods for providing nourishing, well-balanced meals to athletes, students and staff. Our corporate and regional specialists give ARA's dining service manager expert advice in planning menus, purchasing goods, controlling waste, utilizing labor. The support of this team effort is carried out daily in Schilletter Hall and Harcombe Commons, and at the Clemson House Buffeteria. It is our desire to serve students what they want and to accommodate them by providing this same efficient service for special events or festive holiday meals.

We're here to provide the type of service that will benefit the entire school and community. THAT'S WHAT WE THINK A DINING SERVICE IS ALL ABOUT.

Standouts in Women's Sports

JEAN ELDRIDGE, Wake Forest: Jean Eldridge has been well-known on the Wake Forest campus as the best woman tennis player at the school, so there were some surprises when people found that her athletic talent seeped into other sports as well. Never having run cross country competitively at Wake Forest, she decided to give it a try in 1976, her junior year. The results were gratifying to Jean, who always endeared running as a second sports love. Her best time was 32:05 in the five-mile run and her talents were considerable enough to place third in both the North Carolina State Meet and the Governor's Cup race in South Carolina. But it is on the tennis courts that the Media, Pa., native has made her fame at Wake, playing the No. 1 singles as a freshman and junior, and No. 2 as a sophomore. Last season, she stroked her way to a 10-1 record and capped the season with a sixth-place finish in the state tournament. She intends to forego cross country this fall and concentrate on the up-and-coming tennis program.

TARA HEISS, Maryland: There was an ongoing debate at Maryland last season by basketball fans of the men's and women's teams as to who was the best passer and ballhandler on campus. Some said Brad Davis was the best, others insisted that Tara Heiss, point guard on Chris Weller's women's team, was tops. This year there will be no debate. Davis has gone to the pros and Heiss will have the crowds in Cole Field House all to herself to dazzle with her pinpoint passing and break-neck dribbling. Heiss will be a senior this season and she has already planted her name firmly in the Maryland record book. She holds four single game records, including most points, 34 against Delaware, along with five season and five career marks. During her three seasons, she has scored 907 points and has a career high of 255 assists. Honors received by the Bethesda, Md., native include several All-America listings and an invitation to play in the Hanes All-America Game. The last player cut from the 1976 Olympic team, she will be a key this season as the Terps expand their schedule to meet all six ACC schools and such national powers as UCLA, Kansas and Immaculata.

DOTTIE DILTS, Virginia: A senior Dean's List engineering major, Dottie Dilts received All-America honors in swimming the past two years. As a sophomore, she scored all Virginia's points in the AIAW Nationals, pushing the Cavaliers to a 35th place finish. She placed in the 100 and 200 breaststroke events. Elected co-captain her junior year, she led Virginia to the nationals by qualifying in five events. She earned All-America status in the 100 backstroke and as part of the 400 medley and 800 freestyle relays. The Cavaliers, as a team, finished 17th nationally, largely because of her efforts. She holds a number of Virginia records, and her contributions this winter could put Virginia in the top ten. The Fairfax, Va., native is majoring in Applied Math.

CINDY JOHNSON, Duke: A rising senior from Spring Lake, N.J., Cindy Johnson is looking forward to competing in the first ACC women's tennis tournament this fall. She is the four-time women's state intercollegiate champion and has led the Blue Devils to two straight state team championships. Last spring, she led Duke to the runners-up spot in the Southern Regionals, which automatically qualified the team for the AIAW National Championship. She has played the No. 1 position all three of her years at Duke and looks forward to the pro tennis circuit following graduation in January.

GENIA BEASLEY, N.C. State: Fast establishing herself as one of the top players in the college game today, Genia Beasley was a prime reason N.C. State finished 21-3 last season and earned the No. 10 ranking in the final national poll. A freshman last year, she led the Wolfpack in scoring with a 17.5 average and in rebounding at 11.3 per game. She was chosen to play in a post-season all-star game in Washington, D.C., and was invited to the American team trials for both the World University Games and the Junior Pan American Games. She was an unanimous all-state selection and was the Most Valuable Player in the Virginia Invitational Tournament last winter. She made 16 of 18 shots from the field against national power Immaculata and led State in scoring, rebounding or both in 21 of its 24 games. She enjoys horseback riding and plans a career in pediatrics after graduation.

ANN MARSHALL, North Carolina: A junior from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Ann Marshall has already established herself as one of the greatest swimmers in North Carolina history. While a student at Pine Crest High School, she finished fourth in the 200 freestyle at the 1972 Olympic Games. She came to UNC with a great reputation and proved it was well-deserved in her very first race when she set a national collegiate record in the 200 freestyle. As a freshman she broke seven national collegiate records. She was national champion in both the 200 freestyle and the 200 backstroke, setting new records in both. She also finished third in the 500 freestyle. She did not win a national title last year, but still bettered her old national marks in the 200 backstroke and 200 freestyle. She finished second nationally in the 200 freestyle, 11th in the 500 freestyle and 11th in the 50 backstroke. Sparked by her performances, Carolina finished seventh in the nation last year.

CHRIS DAGGETT, Clemson: Chris Daggett entered Clemson as any normal, shy first-year student but quickly distinguished herself. For the Dayton, Ohio, native became the Tigers' first swimming All-American, earning that prestigious honor in the AIAW Nationals at Providence, R.I. Her 4:35.0 clocking in the 400 individual medley placed her 10th nationally and earned the lofty title. Throughout her freshman year, she was a standout for the Clemson team in its first season under Coach Bob Boettner. She set school records in six individual events and was a member of four record-setting relay teams. The 5-4 swimmer holds the Tiger marks in three lengths of both the butterfly and the individual medley. She is also a part of the school record in two distances of the medley and freestyle relays. Setting records and becoming an All-American in her first year, Chris Daggett looks to improve over the next three years, somehow.

Spotlighting The Seniors

Thad Allen

Travers Webb

Rick Weddington

Six of Clemson's 14 seniors on the 1977 Tiger football team hail from the State of North Carolina. Half of those Tar Heel natives are featured today in Charlotteans Thad Allen and Rick Weddington, and Graham product Travers Webb.

Thad Allen came to Tigertown from Garinger High School where he was an All-South and All-America selection as a prepster.

A solid 251-pounder, he began his Clemson career with the defensive unit at tackle, and got in some spot starting roles as a freshman in 1974.

He spent the following year at the same position, then was moved to the offensive line one year ago.

Allen was most impressive during the off-season workouts, and progressed at such a level that the Tiger coaches called the spring session of '77 his best off-season program ever.

He has been a valuable member of Clemson's offensive line this fall, and seems to improve with each outing.

Allen will earn his fourth varsity letter as a Tiger this season.

To label Trav Webb versatile may be an understatement.

A Shrine Bowl product out of Graham High School, Webb was a promising linebacker with the varsity as a Clemson freshman, and was credited with making a game-saving tackle on a Virginia receiver to preserve a close 32-27 win over the Cavaliers in '73.

A non-related football injury during the summer of '74 kept him out of action that fall, but he returned in 1975 as a linebacker/defensive end/offensive lineman.

In 1976, Webb earned his third varsity letter, this time as a center.

He was moved to tight end last spring and has performed quite well at his new position, despite suffering a shoulder injury that kept him out of the Virginia Tech game.

Younger brother Gary is a defensive back with the Tigers, and youngest brother Kelly is a freshman griddier at Duke.

Rick Weddington is a good example of the oft-used comment that "quarterbacks are always good athletes."

A signal-caller for the highly respected Gus Purcell at Myers Park High School, the hotbed for standout high school quarterbacks, Weddington actually signed with N. C. State out of Myers Park, yet spent the next fall at Massanutten Academy.

After very limited duty as a Tiger quarterback, he was switched to the receiving corps a year ago and saw enough action in 1976 to earn his first Clemson letter. He caught but one pass last fall for five yards.

Through five games in '77, Weddington was second only to Jerry Butler in receiving.

His first career TD came on a brilliant catch against Virginia Tech. The following week he had a 35-yard TD reception against Virginia.

During the fiscal year of 1976-77, Clemson's IPTAY Club experienced its finest year. For the thirteenth consecutive year contributions exceeded those of the previous twelve month period. IPTAY President George Poole, Jr. and his staff, along with the more than 400 IPTAY Representatives, led the organization to a record setting year. An increase of almost twelve percent above last year's contributions was realized and the organization achieved one hundred and seven percent of its projected goal.

Limited Edition Prints

Available from the Clemson University Athletic Department

Print size 24" x 34½" / Image area 21½" x 32½"

The Athletic Department is offering a magnificent limited edition that will prove to be a collector's item. Only 1500 signed and numbered prints are available. Each has been personally inspected by the artist and bears a small tiger paw emblem with handwritten date of issue.

Artist Cheryl Crawford Nute encompasses a sensitive portrayal of realism with an uncompromising gaze that cannot be forgotten. The craftsmanship of this reproduction is superb and should be included in the collections of inspired Clemson supporters and print collectors alike.

The original painting will be on display at the Frank J. Jervey Athletic Center through November.

If You've Wanted a Place at the Lake.

Chickasaw Point is a 1,200-acre community on Lake Hartwell, one of the biggest and best fishing lakes in the country. If you buy a homesite or a home at Chickasaw Point, you can enjoy swimming, boating, tennis, a country club atmosphere and a rolling, hill-country golf course that's one of the most challenging in the Southeast.

Your property is protected by 24-hour security and established architectural covenants guarantee the quality of your environment.

Fifty private residences have already been built at Chickasaw Point, in a quiet, rural setting that's convenient to shopping, medical facilities and a major interstate highway.

The climate is mild, the cost of living reasonable. You can build now, for weekends and vacations, and look forward to year 'round living after retirement.

To reach Chickasaw Point, exit I-85 at the Fair Play, S.C. exit. Drive west on SC Highway 59, one mile to the village of Fair Play. Turn left and drive south on SC Highway 182, following signs to SC Scenic 11. Turn right, then take the first left to the Chickasaw Point entrance. For more information, you can write or call Chickasaw Point, P.O. Box 68, Fair Play, S.C. 29643, Tel: (803) 882-3800.

Obtain HUD property report from developer and read it before signing anything. HUD neither approves the merits of the offering nor the value of the property as an investment, if any.

This offer void in states where prohibited by law.

They are doctors, lawyers, teachers, farmers, businesspersons, military strategists, public servants. They have a lot going for them. They have an opportunity to grow. And their roots are here on this campus. They are former students of this institution in the foothills of South Carolina.

Clemson University has been involved in providing one of this nation's most vital resources since 1893. Yet, the educational capabilities of Clemson continue to mount, and the University has a vibrant incentive to demonstrate its ability, and an objective yardstick to measure it.

As Clemson University continues its contribution to the development of this state, it remains an indispensable part of its future. Combine capacity, ability and opportunity and you conclude that potential is virtually unlimited.

It is, with your help. Graduates, former students and friends of Clemson are not only a source of pride for the University but a monumental strength in undergirding its educational programs with annual investments in the institution through the Clemson Alumni Loyalty Fund and other development opportunities at the University.

But greater challenges lie ahead. Knowledge has multiplied beyond comprehension; the domestic and world situations have become unwieldy and precarious. To make sure performance measures up to potential, Clemson University utilizes wisely and frugally every source of aid possible from all sectors of a free society — private citizens and foundations, business and industrial organizations, state and federal governments.

Now, more than ever before, Clemson needs you, your interest, and your investment in education. Now, more than ever before, won't you consider what you can do for Clemson?

1. Brothers Dave (left) and Mark Buechler of Louisville, Ky., both maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average in the classroom for the 1976-77 school year. Dave is a history major, whereas Mark is majoring in physics. 2. Quarterback Steve Fuller of Spartanburg, an industrial management major, recorded a perfect 4.0 during the spring semester, and had a fine 3.88 on the year. 3. Laura Lawton Perry of College Park, Ga., had the fourth highest yearly grade point average with a 3.85 in the School of Education. 4. Swimmer Mike Bowley of Darien, Conn., also recorded a perfect 4.0 fall semester. His yearly mark was 3.58 in chemical engineering. 5. Baseballer Randy Quintrell had a 4.0 semester during the spring, at the same time he was helping the Tigers maintain their top national ranking, and finished the year with a 3.83 GPR.

Clemson's overall athletic program has been ranked among the nation's top 25 for the past two seasons, and Tiger athletes have also excelled academically during that period.

Out of a total of 286 athletes, 46 posted a 3.0 or better out of a possible 4.0 for the 1976-77 school year, and 40 others had at least one semester of 3.0 or better work.

Brothers Dave and Mark Buechler of Louisville, Ky., led the academic parade as both achieved a perfect 4.0 during the year.

Dave, a junior history major, is a distance runner on the Tig track team, and Mark, a sophomore physics major, is fighting for the top spot on Clemson's tennis team.

Quarterback Steve Fuller, an industrial management major, had a 4.0 semester during the spring to record a 3.88 on the year, and pitcher Randy Quintrell, with a 4.0 during the baseball season, posted a 3.83 yearly average.

And swimmer Mike Bowley, aided by a 4.0 in the fall, had a 3.58 on the year.

Tailgate picnics are as much a part of Clemson football Saturdays as wearing orange and sporting painted Tiger paws on noses. These informal outings have become a tradition for the thousands of Tiger fans who travel countless miles to see their team.

In the time it takes to whistle a little of "Tiger Rag," the general area around Clemson Memorial Stadium is transformed into one big picnic ground a couple of hours prior to kickoff. Every imaginable object is used as a dining table: the checkerboard cloth laid on the ground, hoods of cars and card tables brought from home. All serve their purpose to the fullest.

TAILGATING:

These banquets have become feasts of southern fried chicken, potato salad, potato chips, sandwiches, home-made cakes and brownies — all packed in picnic baskets and brought to Clemson. The ice chest is usually filled to the brim with cold beer, soft drinks and iced tea.

As one onlooker puts it, "Tailgate picnics are the largest outdoor socials around and they sure look inviting."

Tailgating to Tigertown is also the theme for a popular pre-game radio show which features Dan Kelley, morning air personality at WFBC radio in Greenville.

Dan does a live broadcast from the campus before each Clemson home game, taking fans on a nostalgic trip through the music and Clemson history of the past three decades.

The show originates from the grounds of Littlejohn Coliseum across from stadium gate 13. Dan invites everyone to tune in "Kelley's Tiger Tailgaters" from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at 1330 on the AM dial and also to drop by to see him at the broadcast site.

The fellowship and the anticipation of the game, along with the excitement of seeing thousands of other fans, create the atmosphere for what has become one of Clemson's and America's favorite Saturday outings — the football tailgate picnics.

The purpose of that rotating disk on your electric meter is to measure the amount of power being used.

The more you're using, the faster it goes. And the higher your monthly bill will be.

Keep that in mind. And use electricity wisely.

Clemson Honors Mrs. Helen Langstaff Tiger Brotherhood's Mother of the Year

Mrs. Helen Langstaff, mother of five, has been named the recipient of Tiger Brotherhood's Mother of the Year Award for 1977.

The award is presented annually by the local service and honor fraternity to the woman who offers the greatest contribution to Clemson University through her own actions or through those of her children.

Three of her children enrolled at Clemson.

Witt was the first to enter the University, thanks to a track scholarship. A forestry graduate of '75, he was recognized by the Spirit Club for outstanding loyalty and dedication to University activities. Witt is currently employed by Sonoco Paper Products in Jackson, Tenn.

George and Sara are Clemson seniors. A mechanical engineering major, George is head cheerleader for the Tigers, and is scheduled to graduate in May.

Sara, a nursing major, will also graduate this May.

Eastern Kentucky University awarded Jamie a degree in physical education, only because Clemson did not offer that field of study. She is earning her master's from the University of Georgia.

Lindy is the youngest of the Langstaff children, and is a freshman at Dobyns-Bennett High School in Kingsport, Tenn. After attending two summer tennis camps at Clemson, she hopes to enter the University after graduation from high school.

A native of River Forest, Ill., and graduate of Duke University, Helen and Witt I. Langstaff, Sr., reside in Kingsport.
